Myrtle blue is confident and self-assured, although he needs a little time to adjust into a new situation. He shows some stress in new situations and little to no stress around new people. He is curious and investigative with new sites and sound, although he did startle in the beginning but recovered on his own. He is socially appropriate in his interactions with litter mates, cats, and with other dogs. He is also socially appropriate in his interactions with people. He does vocalize in socially appropriate situations but it seems easily managed and redirected. He does use his mouth to initiate or engage in play but has very good bite inhibition. He is comfortable and tolerant of handling and restraint. Blue has moderate energy. He has good motivations for food and toys. He has very good motivations for interaction. The litter overall have no red flags and show no possessiveness. They are all comfortable and tolerant of handling and restraint. There are some subtle differences between the puppies in this litter. The puppies are curious, social, happy, and playful. They are eager and engaging while still being content to explore and play on their own.
