Individual Notes:

The Gwen litter overall is confident and self-assured. They show little to no stress in new situations, around new people, or in circumstances typically considered stressful. Green and Pink need a little time to adjust into a new situation, but do so very quickly and on their own. These puppies are curious and investigative with new sites and sounds, including those that should be considered startling. These puppies have good memory, and problem-solving abilities for their age and state of development. They have a very good motivation for food, toys, and interaction at fairly equal and balance levels. These puppies are socially appropriate in their interactions with one another, with cats, and with other dogs. They are also socially appropriate in their interactions with people. They are rarely vocal. They do use their mouth quite a lot to initiate or engage in play, Green and White especially. They have good bite inhibition. Green and White can be a little rough at times. These puppies are all comfortable and tolerant of handling and restraint. They have no red flags and show no possessiveness. The litter overall has moderate energy. They are very bubbly, eager, and engaging. They are social and curious. They are well-balanced, being content to explore and play on their own while still being personable and engaging. When comparing these puppies side-by-side, Pink, Red and Red Dot are the most independent. White, Pink, and White Dot can be a little pushy in their effort to get and keep your attention. Overall the Gwen puppies should adapt well to most any home.

Health notes: Pink Dot has an underbite
