Individual Notes:

The Libby litter is overall confident and self-assured, showing no stress in new situations or around new people. Even in typically stressful circumstances, these puppies react appropriately to new sights and sounds. They are curious and investigative, which includes responding well to startling events and sounds. These puppies have good memory and problem-solving abilities appropriate for their age and stage of development. They are equally motivated by interaction, food, and toys. Socially, they interact well with one another, as well as with cats, dogs and people. They are rarely vocal and exhibit no red flags or possessiveness. While they use their mouths frequently to initiate or engage in play, they have very good bite inhibition.

In terms of energy levels, these puppies are mid to moderate, with subtle differences. Pink is very affectionate and engaging, while Red is a bit more easy-going. However, these differences are quite subtle.

Overall, these puppies are very social, curious, playful, and happy. They can be a bit rough and clumsy due to their large size, but they are well-balanced, personable and affectionate while still content to explore and play on their own. They should adapt well to into any home environment.
