Pink dot is very confident and the first to engage and has a cute, curious nature.

Red dot will explore independently but loves to check back in for cuddles. She's a little more gentle with her interactions.

Pink has good focus and will try hard to engage with you.

has underbite

Red is a good balance of independence and interactive play. She is good with handling.

White will explore on her own but can be redirected easily. She can entertain herself with toys

They all seem to love interactive toys. Noises and movement excite them and they don't shy away from it.

They are a happy playful litter with very similar behaviors.

They are all eager to interact and they are all "pick me" girls.

They will bond easily.

With a little boundary and basic manners training they will be a delight to have in most any home.
