Bethany Boys Temperament Overview:

The Bethany litter overall is a little timid to start and they need time to adjust into new situations. These puppies would all benefit from a couple of weeks of Prep School to help them with their confidence. As their confidence comes up, some of these temperament traits will change as part of the learning that will occur. These puppies at this point overall show some stress in new situations, around new people, or in circumstances typically considered stressful. These puppies are curious and investigative with new sights and sounds, including those that should be considered startling, but need a moment to recover from being startled. These puppies have good memory, focus, and problem-solving abilities, average to their age and stage of development. They also have good motivations for food and interaction and are interested in toys.

These puppies are socially appropriate in their interactions with one another, with cats, and with other dogs. They are also socially appropriate in their interactions with people. They are very gentle and rarely use their mouth to initiate or engage and play. These puppies are generally quiet and exhibit no possessiveness. However, their timid nature can develop into fear if they are overwhelmed or pressured. With proper socialization, they will mature into gentle, respectful, social, playful, and happy dogs. To establish a solid foundation, four weeks of Prep School are recommended.
