Ferrari Litter Temperament Overview:

The Ferrari litter overall is confident and self-assured. They show no stress in new situations, around new people, or in circumstances typically considered stressful. They are curious and investigative with new sights and sounds, including those that should be considered startling. These puppies, overall, have good memory, focus, and problem-solving abilities—average for their age and stage of development. They have excellent motivation for interaction and good motivation for food and toys.

These puppies are socially appropriate in their interactions with one another, with cats, and with other dogs. They are also socially appropriate in their interactions with people. They rarely use their mouths to initiate or engage in play and have excellent bite inhibition if they do. They are rarely vocal. These puppies have no red flags and show no possessiveness. They are comfortable and tolerant of handling and restraint, although they can be a little wiggly due to excitement for this type of interaction. The overall impression of this litter is that they are happy and ready for anything.
