Peach Boys Temperament Overview:

The Peach litter overall is confident and self-assured after a little time to adjust to new situations. They may show some stress around new people or in circumstances typically considered stressful, but they adjust very well on their own when given the chance. These puppies are curious and investigative with new sights and sounds, including those that might be considered startling.

They have very good memory, focus, and problem-solving abilities that are average for their age and stage of development. They show excellent motivation for interaction and food and have a good interest in toys.

Their social interactions are appropriate with one another, with cats, with other dogs, and with people. They rarely use their mouths to initiate or engage in play and have excellent bite inhibition if they do. These puppies are rarely vocal and show no red flags or possessiveness. They are comfortable and tolerant of handling and restraint and often actively seek out this type of interaction. They are very gentle with handling and very cuddly. Overall, these puppies are very similar in temperament and have good potential for therapy work.
