Boys Temperament Overview:

The Briar litter is overall confident and self-assured. While a couple of puppies initially needed a little time to adjust, they quickly became social and confident once settled. These puppies show little to no stress in new situations, around unfamiliar people, or in environments typically considered stressful. They are curious and investigative when exposed to new sights and sounds, including those that might be considered startling. At this stage of development, they demonstrate excellent memory, problem-solving skills, and focus—above average for their age. They are highly motivated by interaction and food and have very good motivation for toys as well.

Socially, they are appropriate in their interactions with one another, with cats, with other dogs, and with people. While they may use their mouths to initiate or engage in play, their bite inhibition is excellent. They only vocalize in socially appropriate situations and are easily redirected when needed. These puppies have no red flags and show no possessiveness.

Overall, this is a happy, playful, and engaging group of boys—silly, social, and well-balanced. They should adapt well into a variety of home environments.
