Chanel Litter Temperament Overview:

The Chanel litter overall needs a little time to adjust in new situations, but they do so quickly and on their own. Once settled, they are personable, playful, curious, and happy. These puppies show little to no stress when meeting new people or in circumstances typically considered stressful. They react appropriately to new sights and sounds, remaining curious and investigative.

They have very good memory, focus, and problem-solving abilities, which are above average for their age and stage of development. They show excellent motivation for interaction, with good motivation for food and toys as well. Socially, they are appropriate in their interactions with one another, with cats, and with other dogs. They are also well-mannered in their interactions with people. While they may use their mouths to initiate or engage in play, they display very good bite inhibition. They are rarely vocal, show no red flags, and demonstrate no signs of possessiveness.

These puppies are comfortable and tolerant of handling and restraint, with most of them actively seeking out this type of interaction. The litter is fairly consistent overall, with all puppies displaying mid to moderate energy levels. They are well balanced, personable, and engaging, with only subtle variations between individuals.
