Faryn Litter Temperament Overview:

The Faryn litter overall is confident and self-assured. While a couple of puppies may need additional time to adjust in new situations, they generally show little to no stress when meeting new people or experiencing circumstances typically considered stressful, unless otherwise noted. They are curious and investigative with new sights and sounds, even those that could be considered startling.

These puppies show strong motivation for interaction, along with good motivation for food and toys. They display good memory, focus, and problem-solving abilities that are average for their age and stage of development. Socially, they are very appropriate in their interactions with one another, with cats, and with other dogs. They are also well-mannered with people, with no red flags or signs of possessiveness unless otherwise noted. While they may occasionally use their mouths to initiate or engage in play, they demonstrate excellent bite inhibition. They are rarely vocal, and all are comfortable and tolerant of handling and restraint.
