Gamora Litter Temperament Overview:

Gamora and Micah produced a litter with two distinct but equally lovely temperament styles, with both reflecting different strengths from their parents. Across the litter, these puppies are affectionate, personable, people-focused, playful, and socially motivated, with strong engagement and several puppies showing especially promising early qualities for service and therapy development.

Some of the puppies lean more toward Gamora's temperament and present as balanced, sweet, playful, affectionate, and naturally manageable, with a comfortable mid-level energy. Others strongly reflect Micah's bubbly personality and are highly engaging, focused, playful, silly, social, and confident, with energy that can rise toward mid-moderate when interaction and excitement are involved.

One of the strongest themes throughout the litter is their people focus. These puppies consistently value human interaction, with the more animated puppies often becoming even more expressive when actively engaged. Several also showed the combination of confidence, engagement, tolerance, and social motivation that provides a very promising early foundation for continued service or therapy development.

Because the litter contains both temperament styles, individual matching will be especially valuable. The more balanced, mid-energy puppies can adapt beautifully to a broad variety of homes, while the more animated, mid-to-moderate puppies will shine with families who enjoy an engaging, interactive, and active relationship with their dog.
