Chanel Litter Temperament Overview:

The Chanel litter is a well-balanced, personable, intelligent, and engaging group. As a whole, these puppies appreciate a little time to take in a brand-new situation, but importantly, they adjust quickly and on their own. Once comfortable, they become playful, curious, happy, affectionate, and much more expressive.

They have shown little to no stress in situations that would typically be considered stressful for a young puppy and respond appropriately to new sights and sounds with curiosity and investigation. They also demonstrate above-average memory, focus, and problem-solving abilities for their age, along with excellent motivation for human interaction and good motivation for food and toys.

Socially, this is a very appropriate group. They interact well with people, other dogs, cats, and one another, show no possessive tendencies or other red flags, and are rarely vocal. While they may occasionally use their mouths to initiate play, they demonstrate very good bite inhibition. They are also comfortable and tolerant with handling and restraint, with most actively seeking out that interaction.

Temperament is quite consistent across the litter, with only subtle individual differences. Energy sits primarily in the mid range with room to rise toward moderate during play and interaction. Overall, these are gentle, respectful, affectionate, sweet puppies who should be wonderful additions to most homes willing to give them that initial moment to acclimate to something completely new.
