Thelma Litter Temperament Overview:

Thelma and Bruce bring together two personalities that complement each other beautifully. Thelma is bouncy, happy, playful, curious, personable, and endlessly fun—a true perpetual puppy with plenty of personality and an impressive amount of smarts. Bruce brings a softer quality to the pairing. He is sweet, gentle, playful, and respectful, and while he can be a little reserved when something or someone is brand new, his wonderful demeanor comes through once he has had a chance to settle.

Their puppies are a fun, slightly eclectic group that reflects both sides of the pairing. Across the litter, they are playful, happy, engaged, social, silly, sweet, and curious. Some walk into new situations more readily, while others appreciate a moment to observe and adjust before showing their full personality. Once comfortable, there is a lot of connection and personality throughout this litter.

Energy is generally mid level, with Blue carrying a little more range into mid-to-moderate. They can become more animated through play and interaction, but they also show a very nice ability to calm. Handling tolerance is an especially strong quality throughout the litter, alongside great human engagement and a natural slight people orientation.

Each puppy also showed great early working potential, with excellent handling tolerance, engagement, people focus, and balanced temperaments providing promising foundations for continued Service and/or Therapy development. Overall, these puppies should fit beautifully into a variety of homes, with Red and White specifically benefiting from families that will give them a moment to acclimate without overwhelming them.
